A new chapter for Wilton Park

IPUT Real Estate has been investing in Dublin's urban fabric for over 50 years. We believe that successful owners are those that see themselves as stewards of their neighbourhoods rather than just their buildings.

At Wilton Park, we are creating an inclusive, vibrant and sustainable neighbourhood in the centre of the city.

Our landmark development will be the European headquarters for LinkedIn, as well as a place to be enjoyed by the local community and the people of Dublin.

With its rich streetlife, restaurants and cafes, and other community amenities centred on a new public square and a restored one-acre park, this will be a place that combines the best of neighbourhood living with the area's rich cultural heritage.

Where we are

Wilton Park will help re-imagine an important location in central Dublin.

Assembling the site

The site has been thoughtfully assembled over a 40 year period with the vision to transform this part of the city.

Development overview

The entire development will be fully completed by 2024.

Fostering neighbourhoods

Bringing the best of neighbourhood life to the city

Wilton Park is where a rich cultural and literary history meets nature and the best of community living. With the park and the canal on our doorstep, this neighbourhood already offers some incredible natural places to enjoy. It's also an opportunity for the community to celebrate the area's unique heritage.

A place for people to enjoy

At IPUT Real Estate, we see ourselves as custodians of the city. Our ambition is to make a positive contribution to society by sustainably developing our buildings.

We understand that technology and the impact of the pandemic is changing people's working patterns, and where we work has to change to reflect that. We explored this topic in our Making Place research report.

Based on our research, we see Wilton Park as a unique opportunity to create an appealing place for those working here but also a rich neighbourhood for them and the wider community to enjoy.

Mary Lavin Place: a new cultural hub for Dublin

New square at Wilton Park named in tribute to writer Mary Lavin

Mary Lavin was one of the most influential Irish female writers of her generation. We are recognising her contribution by naming the new square at Wilton Park as Mary Lavin Place. It will be the first time a public place in Dublin City has been named after an Irish female writer.

Mary Lavin Place will form the social and cultural hub of Wilton Park. It will include a commemorative sculpture in Mary's honour, and a new community bookshop and social space. Through events, exhibitions and other community projects, we want to bring the neighbourhood together to celebrate our city's heritage and continue to enrich people's experiences through art and culture.

Use QR code to view a specially commissioned short film to mark the naming of Mary Lavin Place, featuring leading Irish actor, Cathy Belton, reciting one of Lavin's poems, Let Me Come Inland Always or visit: iput.com/social

About Mary Lavin

Mary Lavin was born in the US in 1912, and moved to Ireland when she was 10. Her first volume of short stories, Tales from Bective Bridge, was published in 1942 and won the James Tait Black Memorial Prize. Renowned for her mastery of the short story, Lavin was also a writer of novels and poems. Her legacy, however, is not only to literature but to the Irish literary ecology. Her mews in 11 Lad Lane, where she lived between 1958 and 1981, was a literary hub, where writers such as Frank O'Connor, Sean O'Faolain and John McGahern regularly fraternised. Mary Lavin was a keen supporter of a younger generation of writers such as Nuala O' Faolain and Colm Toibin, often offering them support on their own journeys as writers.

Bringing the best of global design to Dublin

Wilton Park is designed to reflect its prestigious environment and the rich heritage of the surrounding area. It will also set the benchmark for sustainable development in Ireland. Our buildings are designed to meet the highest sustainability, efficiency and digital connectivity standards, and we will be employing circular design principles and modern methods of construction to reduce waste and carbon emissions.

IPUT Real Estate: shaping our city

Our vision

Our vision is to set the benchmark for excellence in Irish real estate and positively shape the future of our city.

Who we are

We are Ireland's leading commercial property investment company and the largest owner of offices and logistic assets in Dublin. We are a long-term investor with a 50-year track record in real estate. We own and manage a portfolio comprising over 5 million sq ft, with a net asset value of over €2.7 billion.

We have an international reputation for delivering the highest quality in everything we do. Our goal is to own exceptional buildings that set new standards in design and sustainability in order to attract best-in-class occupiers, drive long-term shareholder value and contribute positively to the communities in which we work. By sustainably investing in the public realm, we make a positive contribution to the social and cultural fabric of our city.

Philosophy

We are passionate about our buildings and our presence in the city. We make long-term investment decisions for the benefit of our stakeholders, with an emphasis on excellence in design, sustainability and the occupier experience.
